SETTLE IT THIS TIME!

All Disinterested Citizens now Concede that

NORTH YAKIMA

is in the Lead for the

STATE CAPITAL!

This is because it stands at the exact center of the state, being equidistant from east to west; because it is the only place in Central Washington that controls all of the power through its Grand Coulee Dam; because it is a point that may be reached easily from all of the surrounding areas of population; because it is situated in a beautiful valley which teems with fruits, matters, hay, tobacco, corn, sugar-cane, and many other agricultural products; because it is beautifully planned, with broad streets, and with a perfect system of water coming down from the outhills of every stream, and long rows of delightful shade trees and fine public buildings; because it is within a few miles of the famous Mount St. Helens, and abounding in mineral waters of great value and utilization; because the Northern Pacific railroad, now in course of construction, will give all the western part of the state the same accessibility with the rest of the state; because the Mississippi, as constructed from Spokane Falls to Grand Coulee, and the Snake River from the Grand Coulee to North Yakima in order to go through the Cascade pass, to which North Yakima leads the way; and because the topography of the country is such as that any and all future railways connecting Eastern and Western Washington must of necessity come at that point, because the post of North Yakima have been on a position of a few feet of land on which to locate public buildings, for the convenience of which Congress has made liberal provision.

As Yakima is in the lead, all eyes should be concentrated on that point, and then settle the question at this election.
