STATE OF WASHINGTON.

Consolidation of the Judicial Counties.

The amendment of the constitution has been adopted by the legislature of the state of Washington, and the consolidation of the judicial counties is now being prepared for its enforcement.

The following is a copy of the act passed by the legislature:

"An act to consolidate the counties of king, Pierce, and Kitsap for the purpose of forming a new judicial county named King.

"Be it enacted by the legislature of the state of Washington, and by the authority thereof, That the counties of King, Pierce, and Kitsap shall be consolidated into one judicial county, to be known as the county of King, and the courts of justice and other officers of the several counties shall be transferred to the said county of King, and the county of King shall be organized and governed in accordance with law.

"Passed the second day of January, A.D. 1873.

A. B. HALEY.

The attorney general of the state of Washington, A. B. Haley, has issued a proclamation declaring the consolidation of the counties of king, Pierce, and Kitsap to be in force and effect.

The new county will comprise an area of about 25,000 square miles, and will include the counties of King, Pierce, and Kitsap.

The county will be under the control of a board of county commissioners, consisting of three members, who will be elected for a term of three years.

The organization of the new county will be completed within the next few weeks, and the new county officers will be elected and qualified.

The new county will have a population of about 200,000, and will include the cities of Seattle, Tacoma, and Everett.

The new county will have a county seat at the city of Seattle, and will have a county jail, courthouse, and other public buildings.

The consolidation of the counties of king, Pierce, and Kitsap is a great step forward in the development of the state of Washington, and will greatly enhance the efficiency of the government.

The new county will have a strong and able team of county officers, and will be in a position to render efficient service to the people of the county.
