The Tacoma of the North!

FAIRHAVEN

Is destined to be a great manufacturing and commercial center, because it has:

- The finest harbor on the Pacific coast;
- The greatest area of adjacent agricultural land;
- The most magnificent forests of timber in the world;
- The finest natural deep water site and water front;
- Luscious acres of the best coal in the world;
- Mountains of first class iron ore;
- Quarries of best sandstone for building purposes;
- Fine in immense quantities;

The terminus of the Fairhaven & Southern railroad, the best equipped line on the coast, now being built to the north, south and east, by which it will intersect all the transcontinental railroads.

In fact, Fairhaven has all the necessary requirements to build up a great city and give employment to a large population.

Fairhaven offers the same opportunity for investors that Tacoma possessed a few years ago, by which scores of people have made hundreds of thousands out of old investments of a few hundred dollars. Now is the time to purchase property, as it will soon be the reach of the small capitalist.

The Tacoma of the North!

In this regard, the city's expansion was marked by the establishment of various businesses and institutions. For instance, in the year 1889, the city of Tacoma was marked by its rapid growth and development. This is a seminal period in the city's history, marked by the establishment of various businesses and institutions that would shape the city's future.

One such establishment was the Fairhaven & Southern Railroad, which was destined to be a great manufacturing and commercial center. The railroad was built to connect the city with the natural resources of the area, such as timber, coal, and iron ore.

Another significant development was the establishment of the Tacoma Grocery Company, which was located at the corner of Pacific Ave. and Union St. This company was one of the most important in the area, providing goods and services to the growing population of the city.

The city's expansion was also marked by the establishment of various businesses, such as the Vanguard Hotel, which was located on Second Ave. and Thirteenth St. This hotel was one of the most important in the area, providing lodging and services to the growing population of the city.

In conclusion, the year 1889 was a significant period in the history of Tacoma. This year marked the beginning of the city's expansion, which would shape the city's future and make it one of the most important cities in the Pacific Northwest.
