John P. Hoyt

A Republican from the Twentieth District, the forty-seven year old lawyer and banker lived in Seattle.

Born in Ohio, Hoyt had taught school and served in the Union army. He was graduated from Ohio State and Union Law College in 1867 and served two terms in the Michigan legislature. He had been a supreme court judge in Washington from 1878 to 1887, and at the time of the Convention was manager of the Dexter Horton Bank and president of the Home Insurance Company.

Hoyt was elected president of the Constitutional Convention, having been nominated by Republican caucus after the withdrawal of Turner. He received forty votes, while his opponents, Warner and Cosgrove, received fifteen each. His election was made unanimous on motion of Warner seconded by Cosgrove.
DELEGATES

Hiram E. Allen

An uninstructed delegate from the Third District, the thirty-two year old lawyer lived in Spokane Falls.

Born in Indiana, Allen came to Olympia, Washington, in 1872, and moved to Spokane Falls in 1880.

Allen served on the following committees: Education and Educational Institutions; Apportionment and Representation; Homestead and Property Exemptions.

Samuel H. Berry

A delegate from the Twenty-fifth District, the forty year old real estate dealer lived in Chehalis.

He was born in Missouri and had been a teacher, surveyor, and county auditor.

Berry served on the following committees: Military Affairs; Revenue and Taxation; En­grossment.

N. G. Blalock

A Democrat from the Tenth District, the fifty-three year old physician and wheat grow­er lived in Walla Walla.

Born in North Carolina, Blalock was graduated from Jefferson Medical College and prac­ticed medicine for twelve years in Decatur, Illinois. He had been an assistant surgeon in the army. In 1873, he came to Walla Walla.

Blalock served on the following commit­tees: Education and Educational Institutions, chairman; State, County and Municipal Indebtedness; State Medi­cine and Public Health; reporting proceedings.
O. A. Bowen

A Republican from the Thirteenth District, the forty-six year old lumbering and manufacturing businessman lived in Skamakawa.

Born in Michigan, Bowen was graduated from Hillsdale College and became part owner and editor of the Coldwater Republican. He had five years experience in the Michigan State Land Office as commissioner and deputy commissioner. He had been a member of the Michigan legislature as well as having engaged in the lumber business there. In 1887 he came to Washington and entered the Columbia River Lumber and Manufacturing Company at Skamakawa.

Bowen served on the following committees: County, City and Township Organization; Revenue and Taxation; State, School and Granted Lands; State Seal.

J. J. Browne

A Democrat from the Second District, the forty-five year old banker and lawyer lived in Spokane Falls.

He was born in Ohio. He came to Washington where he became president of the Browne National Bank at Spokane Falls.

Browne served on the following committees: State, County and Municipal Indebtedness, chairman; Revenue and Taxation; State, School and Granted Lands.

D. Buchanan

A Republican from the Eighth District, this sixty-nine year old Ritzville farmer was the oldest member of the Convention.

Born in Scotland, he came to Washington in 1855.

Buchanan served on the following committees: Legislative Department; Miscellaneous Subjects, Schedule and Future Amendments; Federal Relations, Boundaries and Immigration.
James A. Burk

A resident of Kalama in the Thirteenth District, Burk was a fifty-six year old farmer and stock raiser.

Born in New York in 1833, he came to Washington in 1852 and had served in both houses of the territorial legislature.

Burk served on the following committees: Elections and Elective Rights; Agriculture, Manufacturing, Fisheries and Commerce.

Harrison Clothier

This delegate from the Seventeenth District was a merchant living in Mt. Vernon.

Clothier served on the following committees: Executive Department and Pardoning Power; Printing, Mileage and Contingent Expenses.

Charles Coey

A delegate from the First District, the thirty-five year old merchant lived in Rockford.

Born in New York in 1854, he came to Washington in 1882 and engaged in the general merchandise business.

Coey served on the following committees: Legislative Department; State, County and Municipal Indebtedness; Corporations Other Than Municipal.
George Comegys

A delegate from the Seventh District, the fifty year old lawyer had only recently moved to Oaksdale.

Born in Missouri in 1838, Comegys came to Oregon in 1850. He was a graduate of Willamette College. In 1878 he moved to Colfax and became a member of the territorial legislature in 1881 and speaker of the house. His occupations included stock raising, practicing law and mining.

Comegys served on the following committees: Federal Relations, Boundaries and Immigration, chairman; Preamble and Bill of Rights; Miscellaneous Subjects, Schedule and Future Amendments.

S. G. Cosgrove

A delegate from the Eighth District, the forty-two year old lawyer lived in Pomeroy.

Cosgrove served on the following committees: Military Affairs; Apportionment and Representation; State, School and Granted Lands; rules for Convention.

D. J. Crowley

A Republican from the Tenth District, the thirty-five year old lawyer lived in Walla Walla.

Born in Maine, he was raised in California and came to Washington in 1880.

Crowley served on the following committees: Apportionment and Representation, chairman; Judicial Department; rules for Convention.
Frank M. Dallam

A Republican from the Fourth District, the forty year old printer and publisher lived in Davenport. Born in Missouri in 1849, Dallam was raised in Illinois where he published the Warsaw Bulletin from 1876 to 1875. He published the Hayward Journal in California from 1877 to 1882. Moving to Washington, he established the Review in Spokane Falls, publishing it from 1883 to 1889. At the time of the Convention, he was putting out the Davenport Times.

Dallam served on the following committees: Preamble and Bill of Rights; County, City and Township Organization; Printing, Mileage and Contingent Expenses; State Seal.

Silvius A. Dickey

A delegate from the Eighteenth District, the thirty-one year old teacher lived in Sackman, presently Tracyton, on Puget Sound. He was born in Pennsylvania in 1858. At the time of the Convention, he was superintendent and teacher in a school near Silverdale.

Dickey served on the following committees: Education and Educational Institutions; Miscellaneous Subjects, Schedule and Future Amendments; State, School and Granted Lands.

R. O. Dunbar

A Republican from the Eleventh District, the forty-four year old lawyer lived in Golden­dale. Born in Illinois in 1845, Dunbar came to Oregon in 1846. He was graduated from Willamette University. He was clerk of the District Court in Olympia in 1870-71, member of the territorial council in 1878, prosecuting attorney for his district in 1882, speaker of the house in 1885, and probate judge of Klickitat county in 1888.

Dunbar served on the following committees: State, School and Granted Lands, chairman; Judicial Department; Education and Educational Institutions.
David E. Durie

A delegate from the Nineteenth District, the forty-two year old merchant lived in Seattle.

Born in Scotland in 1847, Durie came to the United States in 1864 and to Washington in 1871. He was active in the Indian wars of 1887-88. He had been a member of the Seattle Common Council.

Durie served on the following committees: Harbors, Rivers, Tidewaters and Navigable Streams, chairman; State, County and Municipal Indebtedness; rules for Convention.

Trusten P. Dyer

A Republican from the Nineteenth District, the thirty-three year old lawyer lived in Seattle.

Born in Missouri in 1856, Dyer was graduated from Weslyan College. He taught school and studied law, and in 1875 was admitted to the bar. He was chief clerk in the registry department of the St. Louis post office in 1878. In 1887 he came to Washington.

Dyer served on the following committees: Elections and Elective Rights; Apportionment and Representation; Revenue and Taxation; reporting proceedings.

Edward Eldridge

A Republican from the Sixteenth District, the sixty-one year old delegate was engaged in farming and sawmilling in Whatcom.

Born in Scotland in 1828, Eldridge followed the sea until 1849. He mined in California and came to Whatcom, Washington Territory, in 1853. He had held all of the county offices and was speaker of the house in the territorial legislature in 1866. He had been a delegate at the Walla Walla Constitutional Convention of 1878.

Eldridge served on the following committees: Revision, Adjustment and Enrollment; State, School and Granted Lands.
J. T. Eshelman

A Democrat from the Eleventh District, the thirty-seven year old minister and real estate dealer lived in North Yakima.

Born in Scotland in 1852, Eshelman came to the United States in 1876 and to Washington in 1887. He had been school superintendent of Klickitat county, county treasurer, and chief clerk of the United States land office in Yakima.

Eshelman served on the following committees: Education and Educational Institutions; Apportionment and Representation; State, School and Granted Lands.

H. W. Fairweather

A Republican from the Fourth District, the thirty-seven year old banker lived in Sprague.

Born in St. Johns, New Brunswick, in 1852, Fairweather came to the United States in 1865 and to Washington in 1871. He had been a railroad executive and at the time of the Convention was a colonel in the militia, director of the First National Bank of Spokane Falls, and president of the First National Bank of Sprague.

Fairweather served on the following committees: Executive Department and Pardoning Power; State, County and Municipal Indebtedness; Revenue and Taxation.

Charles T. Fay

A delegate from the Twenty-third District, the sixty year old farmer lived in Steilacoom.

Born in Massachusetts in 1828, Fay came to Puget Sound in 1874 and moved to Steilacoom in 1878. He was county commissioner of Pierce county in 1886.

Fay served on the State, County and Municipal Indebtedness Committee.
B. B. Glascock

A delegate from the Fourth District, the forty-six year old farmer and stock raiser lived in Spokane Falls.

Born in Missouri in 1843, Glascock came to Washington in 1883. He had been a member of the California Constitutional Convention.

Glascock served on the following committees: Elections and Elective Rights; Military Affairs; County, City and Township Organization.

M. M. Godman

A Democrat from the Ninth District, the thirty-three year old lawyer lived in Dayton.

Born in Missouri in 1856, Godman was educated at Pacific Methodist College in California and came to Washington in 1880.

Godman served on the following committees: Homestead and Property Exemptions, chairman; Judicial Department; Revenue and Taxation.

John F. Gowey

A Republican from the Twenty-fourth District, the forty-three year old lawyer and bank president lived in Olympia.

Born in Ohio in 1846, Gowey was admitted to the bar in 1869 and came to Washington in 1882. He had been registrar in the United States land office for four years, and was a member of the territorial council in 1888. At the time of the Convention, he was mayor of Olympia.

Gowey served on the following committees: Revenue and Taxation, chairman; Judicial Department; Apportionment and Representation.
W. B. Gray

A Democrat from the Eighth District, the forty-one year old stock raiser lived in Pasco. Born in Maine, he had served in the Union army.

Gray was a member of the following committees: Legislative Department; Miscellaneous Subjects, Schedule and Future Amendments; Mining and Mining Interests.

Thomas C. Griffitts

A Democrat from the Third District, the thirty-one year old lawyer lived in Spokane Falls.

Born in Illinois, he moved to Utah at the age of twenty-three and came to Spokane Falls in 1884.

Griffitts served on the following committees: Judicial Department; County, City and Township Organization; credentials; rules for Convention.

Thomas Hayton

A delegate from the Seventeenth District, the fifty-seven year old farmer lived in Fir on Puget Sound.

Born in Kentucky in 1832, Hayton was raised in that state and farmed there until 1862 when he entered the Union army. He moved to Missouri in 1868, and came to Washington Territory in 1876 to farm in Skagit county.

Hayton served on the following committees: State Institutions and Public Buildings; Agriculture, Manufacturing, Fisheries and Commerce.
Francis Henry

A delegate from the Twenty-fourth District, the sixty-two year old lawyer lived in Olympia.

Henry was born in Illinois in 1827. A Mexican war veteran, he came to Olympia in 1862 and served three terms in the territorial legislature. He was probate judge of Thurston county in 1879, after having been a clerk of the Supreme Court and treasurer of the city of Olympia. He was a member of the Walla Walla Constitutional Convention of 1878.

Henry served on the following committees: Preamble and Bill of Rights; Corporations Other Than Municipal; State, School and Granted Lands.

Gwin Hicks

A delegate from the Twenty-second District, the thirty-one year old real estate and stock exchange manager lived in Tacoma.

Born in Olympia in 1858, Hicks was the only native of the territory in the Convention. He was a printer and reporter in Portland until 1882, when he moved to Tacoma and became a typesetter on the Tacoma Ledger. He had been deputy revenue collector for Western Washington, and at the time of the Convention was manager of the Tacoma Real Estate and Stock Exchange.

Hicks served on the following committees: Preamble and Bill of Rights; Executive Department and Pardoning Power; State Seal; Apportionment and Representation.

James A. Hungate

A Democrat from the Seventh District, the 45 year old farmer lived in Pullman.

Born in Illinois, Hungate came to Whitman county in 1873. He was a deputy city clerk and a former Oregon county commissioner.

Hungate served on the following committees: Executive Department and Pardoning Power; State, County and Municipal Indebtedness; Apportionment and Representation.
DELEGATES

Robert Jamieson

A delegate from the Twenty-fifth District, the thirty-five year old mining engineer lived in Wilkeson.

He was born in Scotland in 1854 and was educated at Glasgow. In 1882 he came to California and moved to Wilkeson in 1884.

Jamieson served on the following committees: Miscellaneous Subjects, Schedule and Future Amendments; Mining and Mining Interests.

Richard Jeffs

A delegate from the Eighteenth District, the sixty-two year old farmer lived in Pialschie (between Auburn and Kent) in King County.

Born in New York, Jeffs came to Washington in 1847. He had been a justice of the peace and was engaged in husbandry and hop growing.

Jeffs served on the following committees: County, City and Township Organization; Homestead and Property Exemptions.

George H. Jones

A delegate from the Fifteenth District, he resided in Port Townsend and practiced law.

Jones served on the following committees: Judicial Department; Homestead and Property Exemptions; Engrossment.
Oliver H. Joy

A delegate from the Twenty-fifth District, the fifty-eight year old farmer and mill owner lived in Boisfort.

Born in New Hampshire in 1831, Joy came to California where he mined from 1849 to 1861. He helped form the California mining laws. After lumbering in that state until 1878 he moved to Washington.

Joy served on the following committees: Printing, Mileage and Contingent Expenses; State, School and Granted Lands.

J. C. Kellogg

A delegate from the Eighteenth District, the sixty-nine year old doctor lived in Coupeville.

Born in New York in 1821, he came to Puget Sound in 1852. He was a member of the territorial legislature in 1855-56.

Kellogg served on the following committees: Preamble and Bill of Rights; State, School and Granted Lands.

John R. Kinnear

A Republican from the Twentieth District, the fifty year old lawyer lived in Seattle.

Born in Indiana, Kinnear attended Eureka College in Illinois and Chicago law school. He came to Seattle in 1883 and was a member of the territorial legislature in 1885-86.

Kinnear served on the following committees: Corporations Other Than Municipal, chairman; Judicial Department.
DELEGATES

H. M. Lillis

A Republican from the Twenty-third District, the thirty-three year old teacher lived in Tacoma where he was a member of the city council.

Lillis served on the following committees: Education and Educational Institutions; Miscellaneous Subjects, Schedule and Future Amendments; Printing, Mileage and Contingent Expenses.

Addison A. Lindsley

A delegate from the Twelfth District, the forty-one year old farmer lived in Union Ridge, thirty miles from Portland on the Columbia River.

Born in Wisconsin in 1848, Lindsley moved to Oregon in 1868 where he was a surveyor and engineer. In 1881 he came to Washington. He served in the territorial legislature in 1885-86. At the time of the Convention he was engaged in dairying and stock raising on the Lewis River.

Lindsley served on the following committees: Education and Educational Institutions; State Institutions and Public Buildings; County, City and Township Organization; reporting proceedings.

S. H. Manly

A Republican from the First District, the forty-two year old delegate practiced medicine and engaged in stock raising. He lived at Colville.

Born in Ohio, Manly came to Washington in 1882. He had represented Whatcom and Skagit counties in the legislature.

Manly served on the following committees: Mining and Mining Interests, chairman; Water and Water Rights; State Medicine and Public Health; credentials.
J. P. T. McCroskey

A delegate from the Sixth District, the sixty-one year old farmer lived in Colfax.
Born in Tennessee, he came to Washington in 1879.
McCroskey served on the following committees: State Institutions and Public Buildings; Corporations Other Than Municipal; Water and Water Rights.

J. T. McDonald

A Republican from the Sixth District, the forty-one year old miner and farmer lived in Ellensburg.
Born in Canada, McDonald came to the United States in 1864. He engaged in lumbering in Michigan and mining in Nevada before coming to Washington in 1884 to mine in Kittitas county. He had been a delegate to the legislature and chairman of the Republican central committee, and at the time of the Convention he was a member at large of that committee. He owned stock in a saloon in Ellensburg.
McDonald served on the following committees: Agriculture, Manufacturing, Fisheries and Commerce; Mining and Mining Interests.

Matt J. McElroy

A Democrat from the Twentieth District, the forty-nine year old merchant lived in Seattle.
He was born in Tennessee and lived in Skagit county before moving to Seattle. He served in the territorial legislature in 1887. Nominated by labor, he was endorsed by the Democrats.
McElroy served on the following committees: State Institutions and Public Buildings; Miscellaneous Subjects, Schedule and Future Amendments; Federal Relations, Boundaries and Immigration.
John McReavey

A Democrat from the Fourteenth District, the forty-nine year old delegate was engaged in lumbering and lived in Skokomish.

Born in Maine, McReavey came to Washington in 1863. He served four terms in the legislature.

McReavey served on the following committees: Legislative Department; Federal Relations, Boundaries and Immigration; Engrossment.

Thomas T. Minor

A Republican from the Nineteenth District, the forty-five year old doctor lived in Seattle.

Born in Connecticut in 1844, Minor was an assistant surgeon in the Civil War. He was graduated from Yale College. He came to Puget Sound in 1868 and to Seattle in 1883 where he served as mayor from 1887-88.

Minor served on the following committees: Revision, Adjustment and Enrollment, chairman; State, School and Granted Lands; State Medicine and Public Health.

Austin Mires

A Republican from the Fifth District, the thirty-seven year old lawyer lived in Ellensburg.

Born in Iowa, Mires was graduated from law school in Ann Arbor, Michigan. In 1853 he moved to Oregon where he became chief clerk of the Oregon senate. Later he was mayor, city attorney, and treasurer of Ellensburg.

Mires served on the following committees: Water and Water Rights, chairman; Judicial Department; Credentials.
James Z. Moore

A Republican from the Second District, the forty year old lawyer lived in Spokane Falls.

Born in Kentucky and a graduate of Harvard Law School, he came to Washington in 1886. In 1884 he had been a representative to the Republican National Convention in Chicago. Before the election of a permanent chairman of the Constitutional Convention, he served as president pro tempore.

Moore served on the following committees:
Legislative Department, chairman; Elections and Elective Rights.

R. S. More

A Democrat from the Twenty-third District, the sixty-one year old farmer lived in Puyallup.

Born in Scotland, More came to the United States in 1831 and to Puget Sound in 1853. He had been a county commissioner since 1854 and was a member of the territorial legislature in 1857-58 and 1871. He took part in the Indian wars and helped build the Naches road.

More served on the following committees:
Water and Water Rights; Harbors, Rivers, Tidewaters and Navigable Streams.

Morgan Morgans

A Republican from the Twenty-first District, the fifty-nine year old mining executive lived in Black Diamond.

Born in South Wales, Morgans came to the United States in 1846. Engaged in coal mining in Pennsylvania, he continued this work in California from 1855-68. At the time of the Convention he was superintendent of the Black Diamond mines.

Morgans served on the following committees: Legislative Department; Mining and Mining Interests.
Lewis Neace

A delegate from the Ninth District, the fifty-four year old farmer lived in Waitsburg. Born in Germany, he came to the United States in 1847 and to Walla Walla in 1859 where he was a stock raiser and farmer.

Neace served on the following committees: Elections and Elective Rights; Legislative Department; Corporations Other Than Municipal.

W. L. Newton

A labor delegate from the Twenty-first District, the thirty-five year old miner lived in Olney, forty-three miles from Seattle.

Newton served on the following committees: Agriculture, Manufacturing, Fisheries and Commerce; Mining and Mining Interests. He refused to sign the Constitution when it was completed.

James Power

A delegate from the Sixteenth District, the forty year old printer and publisher lived in LaConner.

Born in Ireland, he came to Ohio and then to Washington. He was a member of the territorial legislature in 1883.

Power served on the following committees: Printing, Mileage and Contingent Expenses, chairman; Harbors, Rivers, Tidewaters and Navigable Streams; rules for Convention.
Biographies

William F. Prosser

A Republican from the Eleventh District, the fifty-five year old lawyer lived in North Yakima.

Born in Pennsylvania in 1834, Prosser had been a teacher, surveyor and miner. He was a colonel in the Civil War. In 1886 he became auditor of Yakima county, and he was special land agent for the general land office for Washington and Oregon.

Prosser served on the following committees: Military Affairs, chairman; Apportionment and Representation; Harbors, Rivers, Tidewaters and Navigable Streams; rules for Convention.

John M. Reed

A delegate from the Seventh District, the forty-seven year old Presbyterian clergyman and farmer lived in Oaksdale.

Born in Missouri, Reed came to Washington in 1879. He had had legislative experience in Oregon and was County Commissioner of Whitman county for four years.

Reed served on the following committees: Miscellaneous Subjects, Schedule and Future Amendments; Revision, Adjustment and Enrollment; Agriculture, Manufacturing, Fisheries and Commerce.

Thomas Milburne Reed

A Republican from the Twenty-fourth District, the sixty-four year old surveyor, civil engineer and lawyer lived in Olympia.

Born in Kentucky in 1825, Reed followed the California, Fraser River and Idaho gold rushes. He was on the Board of Supervisors and County Treasurer of Eldorado county in Idaho, became a member of the Idaho legislature and was admitted to the bar in that state. In 1857 he came to Olympia where he was chief clerk of the United States surveyor-general's office for seven years. He was a member of the territorial council in 1876 and president of it in 1877. For ten years he was auditor of the territory. He had been Grand Secretary of the Grand Lodge of Masons for twenty-eight years, Grand High Priest of the Royal Arch Masons, and was a Knight Templar and thirty-third degree Mason-Scottish Rite.

Reed served on the following committees: State Institutions and Public Buildings, chairman; Revision, Adjustment and Enrollment; State, County and Municipal Indebtedness; credentials; rules for Convention.

Albert Schooley

A delegate from the Seventeenth District, he lived in Florence on Puget Sound.

Schooley served on the following committees: Harbors, Rivers, Tidewaters and Navigable Streams; State, School and Granted Lands.

B. L. Sharpstein

A Democrat from the Tenth District, the sixty-one year old lawyer lived in Walla Walla. He had been a member of the territorial council.

Sharpstein served on the following committees: Miscellaneous Subjects, Schedule and Future Amendments, chairman; Judicial Department; Corporations Other Than Municipal.

John A. Shoudy

A delegate from the Fifth District, the forty-six year old merchant lived in Ellensburg. Born in Illinois, he came to Puget Sound in 1861 and in 1865 took up land on the present site of Ellensburg.

Shoudy served on the following committees: Engrossment, chairman; Corporations Other Than Municipal; State, School and Granted Lands.
Louis Sohns

A Republican from the Twelfth District, the sixty-two year old manufacturer and banker lived in Vancouver.

Born in Germany, Sohns came to Washington in 1852 where he engaged in manufacturing and established and became president of the First National Bank of Vancouver. He was mayor of Vancouver for six years, and he was a trustee of the Washington School for Defective Youths.

Sohns served on the following committees: Preamble and Bill of Rights; Apportionment and Representation; Revenue and Taxation; rules for Convention.

George H. Stevenson

A Democrat from the Twelfth District, the thirty-one year old fisherman lived in Cascades.

Born in Missouri, he came to Washington where he served in the territorial legislature in 1887-88. He was auditor of Skamania county for four years.

Stevenson served on the following committees: Legislative Department; Revision, Adjustment and Enrollment; Harbors, Rivers, Tidewaters and Navigable Streams.

Theodore L. Stiles

A Republican from the Twenty-second District, the forty-one year old lawyer lived in Tacoma.

Born in Ohio in 1848, he was educated at Amherst College and Columbia Law College. He practiced law in New York City from 1873 to 1877, when he came to Washington.

Stiles served on the following committees: County, City and Township Organization, chairman; Judicial Department; State, School and Granted Lands; rules for Convention.
Rob't. F. Sturdevant

A Republican from the Ninth District, the forty-seven year old lawyer lived in Dayton.

He was born in Pennsylvania.

Sturdevant served on the following committees: Judicial Department; State, County and Municipal Indebtedness; Apportionment and Representation.

H. F. Suksdorf

A Democrat from the Third District, the forty-six year old lawyer lived in Spangle.

Born in Germany in 1843, he came to the United States in 1858 and to Washington in 1883. He was graduated from the Iowa State University and at the time of the Convention was engaged in farming near Spangle.

Suksdorf served on the following committees: Revenue and Taxation; Printing, Mileage and Contingent Expenses; State, School and Granted Lands.

E. H. Sullivan

A Republican from the Sixth District, the thirty-nine year old lawyer lived in Colfax.

Born in Michigan in 1850, he came to Washington in 1862. He was prosecuting attorney for Whitman county for two years.

Sullivan served on the following committees: Agriculture, Manufacturing, Fisheries and Commerce, chairman; County, City and Township Organization; Water and Water Rights.
P. C. Sullivan

A Republican from the Twenty-second District, the thirty year old lawyer lived in Tacoma.

Born in Nebraska in 1859, he came to Colfax about 1882 and to Tacoma about 1884.

Sullivan served on the following committees: Elections and Elective Rights, chairman; Apportionment and Representation; Corporations Other Than Municipal.

George W. Tibbetts

A delegate from the Twenty-first District, the forty-three year old merchant lived in Olney.

He was born in Maine.

Tibbetts served on the following committees: Legislative Department; Military Affairs.

J. J. Travis

A delegate from the First District, the thirty-one year old farmer lived in Chewelah.

He was born in Tennessee in 1858. He became head of the Colville Indian Agency by appointment from President Cleveland.

W. W. Waltman was mistakenly received as the delegate from the First District. After this error was rectified the committee appointments given to Waltman were turned over to Travis.

Travis served on the following committees: Election and Elective Rights; State Institutions and Public Buildings; State, School and Granted Lands; rules for Convention.
George Turner

A Republican from the Second District, the thirty-nine year old lawyer and judge lived in Spokane Falls.

Born in Missouri in 1850, Turner came to Washington in 1884 where he became an associate justice of the territorial court. He had been a member of the national Republican conventions of 1876, 1880 and 1884. He was opposed for election to the Convention by the Northern Pacific Railway, the Knights of Labor, and Women's Suffrage and Prohibition groups, but was elected by a three hundred majority.

Turner served on the following committees: Judicial Department, chairman; Harbors, Rivers, Tidewaters and Navigable Streams; State Medicine and Public Health.

J. F. Van Name

A delegate from the Thirteenth District, the thirty-two year old teacher and lawyer lived in Kelso.

Born in Illinois, he came to Washington in 1882. He had been clerk of the second judicial district.

Van Name served on the following committees: Apportionment and Representation; Printing, Mileage and Contingent Expenses; Engrossment.

C. H. Warner

A Democrat from the Sixth District, the fifty-three year old Colfax resident was engaged in flour milling.

Born in New York, Warner came to Washington in 1879. He had taught and practiced law in earlier years. He had been registrar of the Walla Walla Land Office and a member of the territorial legislature in 1883 and 1885.

Warner served on the following committees: Preamble and Bill of Rights, chairman; School and Granted Lands; credentials; rules for Convention.
Allen Weir

A Republican from the Fifteenth District, the thirty-five year old Port Townsend resident was a newspaperman, logger and political appointee.

Born in California, Weir came to Washington in 1860 where he worked in logging camps and on a newspaper in Port Townsend. In 1879 he was clerk of the territorial council. He was a member of the Board of Regents of the territorial University for three terms, a justice of the peace, an acting Commissioner for shipping on Puget Sound, and a United States commissioner appointed by the territorial Supreme Court.

Weir served on the following committees: Executive Department and Pardoning Power, chairman; Harbors, Rivers, Tidewaters and Navigable Streams. Before the election of permanent officers of the Convention, he served as temporary Secretary.

J. J. Weisenburger

A delegate from the Sixteenth District, the thirty-three year old lawyer lived in Whatcom. He was born in Illinois in 1855. He had been city attorney and a justice of the peace.

Weisenburger served on the following committees: Judicial Department; Corporations Other Than Municipal; Mining and Mining Interests.

Arnold J. West

A delegate from the Fourteenth District, the fifty year old Aberdeen resident was engaged in lumbering and manufacturing.

Born in Ireland, he came to Washington by way of Canada in 1884.

West served on the following committees: Apportionment and Representation; Harbors, Tidewaters and Navigable Streams; Federal Relations, Boundaries and Immigration; rules for Convention.
H. C. Willison

A Democrat from the Fifteenth District, the forty-four year old physician lived in Port Townsend.

Born in Indiana, Willison was graduated from the University of the City of New York and came to Washington in 1873. He had been physician to the territorial asylum and penitentiary at Steilacoom and health officer for Puget Sound customs collection district.

Willison served on the following committees: State Medicine and Public Health, chairman; County, City and Township Organization; Apportionment and Representation.

Henry Winsor

A delegate from the Fourteenth District, Winsor was engaged in farming and lived in Shelton.

He served on the following committees: State Institutions and Public Buildings; Homestead and Property Exemptions.